HARVARD INVITED BY SCHOOL CHILDREN

Invitation From 900,000 to Opening of America's Making Movement Is Presented.

KEEN DESIRE TO COME
Volume of Messages and Addresses Make a Hit With President.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.

New York, Oct. 15.—President Harding today expressed a keen desire to be able to accept the invitation of 900,000 school children of New York to be present in the Twenty-first Regiment Armory October 29 at the opening of the exposition of America's Making movement.

The exposition, in which representatives of nearly thirty states will join in picturing what immigration has done for the United States, was explained to the President by Senator Calder and a committee who called at the White House to extend the invitation of the New York school children. The invitation, in the form of a bound volume, included artistically arranged messages from almost every school in New York.

William L. Ettinger, Superintendent of Schools in New York, handed the volume to the President, while John J. Tigert, United States Commissioner of Education, explained the purposes of the exposition and of the American Making movement, in which thousands of people are interested. In reply President Harding said in part:

"Let me say to you this is all very fine, very appealing. While I am listening to the addresses conveying the invitation I could not help but glance over the company. What a fine comment it is that I should not have known you were a foreign group if you had not told me. While I think I have encountered a great many American people in every section of the Republic, and looked upon them with the interest that one invariably does who is in public life, I should have accepted you as one of the representatives of the American people, which come to the White House as business requires or occasion impels."

"I have said a good many times we of America have no racial animosity. We are made of the same stuff, a people which is born of national inspiration. We are the blend of all peoples in the world. I sometimes think we are much the better for that. But to make the real America to which all aspire, we must have distinctly an American spirit, and you can't have that without consecration to America."

"This is not impossible even for those who come here from foreign lands, and who retain affections for native land and still retain an interest for their kinspeople. I would not think very much of a citizen, even though he came to America and then gave all his energy and all his soul to making a better republic, if he didn't still feel a concern for those of his kinspeople in the land from which he came."

"I must be frank with you, because you would lose your respect for me if I were false to you in any way. It is going to be very difficult to get away from official duties at the time of your exposition. I don't need to tell you the reasons. It is just on the eve of an extremely important conference here at the capital, with which I must, of course, have something to do."

"If it is found to be possible to run away and add my part to the success of your wonderful enterprise, I would be more than happy to do so."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Pressure continuing relatively steady over the Eastern States, and it was high and rising over Ontario. It was low over Florida, the Canadian maritime provinces, the northern plain States and the Canadian northwest. This pressure distribution was attended by rain within the last twenty-four hours along the south Atlantic coast, in the upper lake region, the upper Mississippi Valley and in the Pacific States from central California northward, over the remainder of the country the weather was fair.

The temperature continued to rise slowly east of the Mississippi River, except in the upper lake region, and it remained considerably above normal in the plain States, the Rocky Mountain and plateau regions. The indications are for rain in the Atlantic States from southern Virginia southward and in the upper lake region to-morrow and Monday, and in the middle Atlantic and north Atlantic States to-morrow night or Monday. Elsewhere east of the Mississippi River, fair weather will prevail until Monday night.

The temperature will be somewhat lower Monday in the middle and north Atlantic States.

AUDIT OF STILLMAN

TRUST FUND SOUGHT

New Court Move for Accounting of Money Left to Children May Be Made.

$6,000,000 IS INVOLVED

Banker's Wife Expected Also to Seek Guardianship of Second Son.

A new-court move in the James A. Stillman divorce, which is understood to have as its object an accounting of the $6,000,000 trust fund established by the late James Stillman for his son and grandchildren, probably will be made in the Supreme Court at Poughkeepsie to-morrow or Tuesday. This action, which will be in the form of an order to show cause, may possibly be coupled, it was said, with an application by Mrs. Anne Urquhart Potter Stillman for a special guardianship for her second son, Alexander Stillman, 11 years old.

Preparatory to this move a representative of the law firm of John E. Mack, guardian ad item for Baby Guy Stillman, whose good name is attacked in the divorce suit, spent two days last week in the Surrogate's office making copies of the banker's will, one of which was certified. It is understood this certified copy will become part of the papers in the new action, but neither Mr. Mack nor any of the lawyers engaged in Mrs. Stillman's defense would discuss the new motion.

It also was reported that Justice Morschauser of the Supreme Court will be asked to admit as codefendants in the suit a New York trust company that has charge of the James Stillman trust fund and Fred K. Beauvais, the Indian guide named correspondent by Mr. Stillman in the allegations against his wife. The claim will be made, it was stated, that the financial interests of Guy Stillman now are paramount, as his defense has developed to a point where it is believed there is slight chance of an adverse decision for him.
